President 'was target' while visiting the King MI5 THWART DRONE ATTACK ON BIDEN AT WINDSOR

FULL STORY:

EXCLUSIVE
By SIMON DEAN

A DRONE attack on Yank President Joe Biden as he visited Windsor Castle on Monday was thwarted by MI5 agents, it was claimed last night. Spooks leapt into action after a tip-off from colleagues at the Government listening station GCHQ. And after liaising with the CIA and Secret Service in the US, the threat was swiftly "neutralised". It is not yet known who was behind the planned attack.

Sunak shock at latest BBC sex scandal

PRIME Minister Rishi Sunak has described allegations that a BBC presenter paid for sexual images from a teenager as "shocking" and "concerning".

He told reporters on the plane to the Nato summit in Lithuania: "They were shocking, concerning allegations, of course they were."

"The Culture Secretary spoke to the director general."

"He has reassured that the process they are undertaking is vigorous and will be swift, so we've had those reassurances."

"And I think that is the right thing to do because, given the concerning nature of the allegations, it is right that they are investigated swiftly and rigorously."

"It is important we now let that carry on."

Asked if he had been told who the presenter in question was, Mr. Sunak replied: "No."

Farmers set for beaver compo

THE Government should compensate farmers if they have trouble with BEAVERS, say MPs.

The Environment, Food and Rural Affairs Committee claim compensation should help ease concerns of farmers who may be affected by the reintroduction of species, such as beavers.

In a new report called Species Reintroduction, the committee also said animals should not be reintroduced and given protected status without a full management plan being in place, as happened with beavers.

NEW PANDEMIC THREAT... KILLER BUG LURKS IN DOGS' EARS!

YOUR sweet little pooch might be hiding a deadly secret from you.

Scientists have discovered a drug-resistant fungus called Candida auris, and it came from the ear canals of dogs.

The fungus is a serious concern as some strains aren't deterred by anti-fungal medicines used to treat other Candida infections, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The fungus causes serious bloodstream infections and even DEATH in people with weakened immune systems.

The danger from the fungus is increased as many more people bought dogs during the pandemic.

The recent finding - discovered in the ears of four stray dogs in India - is especially alarming because it means man's best friend could transmit it to humans.

Some medical experts estimate more than one in three patients with serious C. auris infections will DIE. The World Health Organization has declared C. auris one of the world's "critical priority" fungal diseases.

"Even though C. auris was only found in stray dogs in this study, there are many stray dogs in many parts of the world," said Jianping Xu, co-author of the study at McMaster University in Canada.

"These dogs could act as transmission vehicles for C. auris to reach other animals and humans," Xu added.

Other fungi have been seen in dogs, but this is the first time C. auris had been isolated from any animal.

DNA analysis of the C. auris found in the four dogs revealed genetic similarities to strains found in humans, making it more likely that the dogs' fungus could jump to humans.

Chinese 'a big threat to Britain'

CHINA represents the "largest state-based threat" to Britain's economic security, Deputy Prime Minister Oliver Dowden says.

It comes as figures show the government intervened in eight attempted takeovers of UK firms by Chinese buyers last year over national security fears.

That was more than any other country, but UK and US deals were also targeted.

Mr Dowden said the decisions were "country agnostic" but he was "clear-eyed" about UK national security.

"I'm very clear that I do not want us to decouple from China, I don't think it's in our interest," he said.

"But at the same time, we have to be clear-eyed about protecting our national security, just in the same way that the Chinese are."

The government has the power to block investments posing a national security risk.

The Cabinet Office said it had received 866 notifications about potential breaches in the last year, relating to defence, energy and communications.

As mortgage rates reach Truss-fiasco levels, experts warn...

THE WORST IS YET TO COME!

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

MORTGAGE rates have surged to within touching distance of the levels seen after Liz Truss's disastrous mini-Budget last year.

The average two-year fixed rate deal is now 6.63 per cent, just shy of the 6.65 per cent level hit on October 20, according to analysts MoneyfactsCompare.

The last time before autumn 2022 that this figure exceeded 6 per cent was nearly 14 years ago, in November 2008 during the global financial crisis.

Banks and building societies have raced to increase mortgage rates in recent weeks, with many pulling deals from the market to reprice them.

Rates on two-year fixes have increased by an average of 1.14 percentage points since June.

The Bank of England, under embattled governor Andrew Bailey, has been raising interest rates sharply since December 2021, when they stood at 0.1 per cent, to reach 5 per cent today.

The rate is widely expected to climb to 6 per cent by the end of the year, as the Bank attempts to tame inflation.

This could prompt further waves of mortgage rate increases, spelling yet more misery for homeowners.

Steep

Stuart Cheetham, chief executive of lender MPower Mortgages, expects the average two-year fixed rate deal to breach the seven per cent mark before the end of the year.

"For most people, mortgage rates will rise between 20 and 30 percentage points further over the next six to eight weeks," he said.

"But interest rates are expected to rise further so we are going to see a few more

THREE STOOGES: Kwarteng, Bank governor Bailey and Truss steep increases in mortgage rates beyond that."

The turmoil is expected to be far longer lasting than the short sharp shock seen last autumn, he warned.

Panic swept the market last year in the response to uncertainty caused by Kwasi Kwarteng's bankers Budget.

Nearly 2,000 mortgage products were pulled by lenders scrambling to re-price deals to reflect expected future rises in interest rates.

Mr Cheetham said: "No one saw it coming last time so it caused a sharp spike. But since March there has been a growing level of uncertainty around inflation, a steady rise in the negative sentiment and several base-rate increases.

"So the unwinding will take several quarters, rather than weeks like last time around."

Homeowners and buyers are rushing to lock in deals as rates keep increasing amid the chaos in the mortgage market.

The value of new remortgages written by Knight Frank Finance increased by 41 per cent during May and June compared with the previous two-month period, it said.

On Monday, Virgin Money hiked its two- and three-year fixed rate deals by 0.35 percentage points.

Wages rise at record rate

WAGES have increased at a record rate amid fears that inflation could remain stubbornly high and result in further interest rate rises by the Bank of England.

The Office for National Statistics (ONS) revealed that average regular pay, not including bonuses, was 7.3% higher in the three months to May compared with the same period last year.

It was the same as the revised figure for the previous three months and the joint highest since records began in 2001.

It comes as workers have sought pay rises in order to help keep up with the increased cost of living, with annual inflation recorded at 8.7% for May amid higher food prices.

STABBED TEACHER GOES HOME

A POPULAR teacher who was stabbed in a school corridor is "recovering well" after leaving hospital, his secondary school has said.

A teenage boy is being questioned on suspicion of attempted murder after a teacher was attacked at Tewkesbury Academy in Gloucestershire just after 9am on Monday.

The academy was locked down and two neighbouring schools were also asked to shut their doors as a "precaution", Assistant Chief Constable Richard Ocone of Gloucestershire Police said.

The school reopened on Tuesday following careful assessment and consultation with cops.

A Tewkesbury Academy spokesperson said: "We feel it is important for our students to be able to return to a sense of normality in their school, where we will be providing a range of additional mental and emotional support for students and staff."

The teacher, who was earlier said to be in a stable condition, was discharged from hospital - while the suspect remains in custody.

He was taken to hospital with a single stab wound after being attacked at the school on Monday.

Playboy babe reveals drama at her first nude shoot...

BLACKED OUT:
Lauren in her modelling days
with iconic mag

I GOT MY FANNY OUT... AND FAINTED!

FORMER Playboy beauty Lauren Anderson revealed she BLACKED OUT when she first peeled off her panties for a nude shoot.

"I actually blacked out... I wanted to be really skinny, and I hadn't eaten anything," she said. "Fortunately, all the makeup people were there and kind of caught me before I fainted."

The beauty's dizzying experience came after she was cast in the brand's 2002 show Girl Next Door: The Search for a Playboy Centerfold, in which 12 women competed to become Playmate of the Month. The show required the final six contestants to pose naked, which led to the scary moment.

She ended up winning the competition, and was on the cover of Playboy's July 2002 issue – and earned £20,000!

Lauren, now 43, is featured on the A&E docu-series Secrets of Playboy.

She was a senior at the University of Florida when she auditioned for her first gig with the mag, posing topless for the 2001 Girls of the SEC issue.

"I kind of went as a joke, just to kind of see what it was all about, and they selected me ... even though I said I wouldn't do fully nude," she added.

On the show, Lauren – who described herself back then as "shy" and "not a party girl" – is seen rewatching a segment of Girl Next Door where she is posing on all fours – which she now calls cringeworthy.

She said: "It just kind of makes me cringe. But I wouldn't change a thing because it turned me into who I am now, which is a very confident person."

ACTRESS BLASTS FEMINISTS WHO CRITICISED THE IDOL...

GO FK YOURSELF!

STARS: Lily-Rose with The Weeknd

THREE LITTLE WORDS: Jane Adams

NUDE SCENES: Lily-Rose

By SUZIE SHELTON
news@sundaysport.co.uk

THE IDOL star Jane Adams has issued three choice words for "feminists" who slated the controversial HBO series: "Go fk yourself."

The series – also starring little Lily-Rose Depp – has been slammed by some as "porn".

But Jane has raged against the hairy-legged brigade, saying: "What is amazing to me is that no-one is listening... I've not seen that before in all my days – such a dogged, 'We refuse to change the narrative'."

"I especially want to say to all the feminists, 'Go fk yourself'."

"All these women I'm working with are talking about their experience, and you're not listening!"

A group of 13 people associated with the project claimed that the show got a dark, misogynistic twist when star and co-creator The Weeknd tapped Euphoria creator Sam Levinson to reimagine it.

Fantasy

"It was like any rape fantasy that any toxic man would have in the show, and then the woman comes back for more because it makes her music better," one anonymous source posted online.

However, Depp, Adams and actress Da'Vine Joy Randolph have all expressed otherwise, as the show continued to face further criticism from viewers.

The Idol tells the story of Jocelyn (Depp), a troubled pop star who tries to get her career back on track when she meets sleazy, controlling night club owner Tedros (The Weeknd, whose real name is Abel Tesfaye). Adams portrays Nikki Katz, a money-hungry record-label exec who gets a lap dance from one of Jocelyn's new eccentric friends in the season finale.

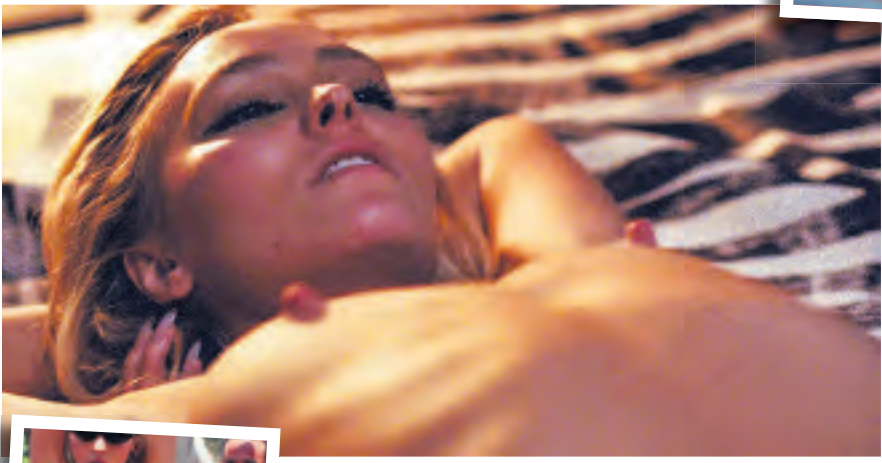

"I love the show," Adams said. "These days, to certain people, you almost have to apologise when you dislike something or you love it. I don't really care any more. That is one good thing about being a grey-haired lady – it's almost like you get a licence to not care."

"Free speech is the licence to offend. The funniest stuff, to me, is going to offend a group of people, no matter what you do."

Depp most recently defended the show, claiming its sex scenes are "important" and "intentional".

She also said the environment on set was a "really safe, creative space", adding: "I've never felt more respected."

Lineker still highest paid Beeb talent

GARY Lineker is the BBC's highest paid on-air talent for the sixth consecutive year and the only star to earn more than £1m in the year 2022/2023.

While there are four women in the Top 10 list of highest earners, none of them has yet broken the £1million threshold.

The salaries of the corporation's top talent have been unveiled while the Beeb is under pressure over allegations an unnamed presenter paid a teen for explicit images.

The BBC has since suspended a male member of staff after The Sun reported he paid a young person around £35,000 over three years, for explicit images.

Lineker (above) – who is one of a number of BBC stars who have publicly denied they're the unnamed presenter at the centre of the scandal – was paid between £1.35m and £1,354,999 for work including Match of the Day and the World Cup.

Ladbrokes hit by footy advert ban

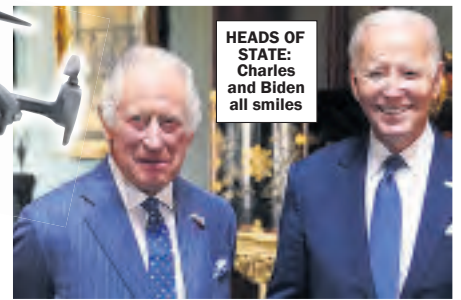

TWO ads for Ladbrokes have been banned for "strongly" appealing to under-18s by featuring well-known Premier League managers.

A promoted tweet for the bookmaker in January and February featured two images of manager Eddie Howe and the wording "19th in 2022 v 3rd in 2023. Eddie Howe's one-year masterclass".

Another carried the headline "Ladbrokes next manager to leave odds" ahead of the names and images of four other managers – David Moyes, Frank Lampard, Brendan Rodgers and Gary O'Neill.

Ladbrokes told the Advertising Standards Authority – who pointed out a very significant proportion of under-18s participate frequently in football – it has since taken steps to ensure that such content will be reviewed more thoroughly to ensure compliance with advertising rules.

NO WONDER THE KING WANTED TO GET HIM INSIDE

Love Island Zara set for Strictly

ZARA McDermott is set to become the first ever Love Island contestant to make an appearance on Strictly Come Dancing.

The documentary maker, who is one of the BBC's rising stars, is poised to sign up for the dance show in the next few days, after holding talks with execs for the past few weeks.

Beeb bosses believe that having the 26-year-old babe on the programme will attract a younger audience and give Zara the chance to further her BBC career.

The beauty is currently dating Made in Chelsea hunk Sam Thompson, 30, with whom she has starred alongside on the E4 show.

Zara is also an influencer with a large social media following after rising to fame on ITV's dating show back in 2018 and competing on The X Factor: Celebrity the following year.

BIDEN HIS TIME: At Windsor Castle

A DRONE attack on President Biden as he visited Windsor Castle on Monday was thwarted by MI5 agents, it was sensationally claimed last night.

Spooks from the Security Service uncovered the plot to use remote control aircraft in a dastardly attack on President Biden after a tip-off from colleagues at the government listening station, GCHQ.

And after liaising with the Yanks' CIA and Secret Service, the threat was "neutralised" according to our sources.

An insider told Midweek Sport: "The President of the United States is the most heavily protected person in the world but that does not stop people attempting to do him harm. The plot appears to have been discovered and dealt with by the UK security services, though they will never make any public comment about this.

EXCLUSIVE By SIMON DEAN

news@sundaysport.co.uk

"It proves once again that British intelligence is world class.

The threat may explain why King Charles was keen to keep President Biden moving during an inspection of soldiers at Windsor Castle.

Biden was reluctant to end his conversation with a King's guardsman while a smiling Charles tried to usher him along on his first visit to the UK since missing the Coronation.

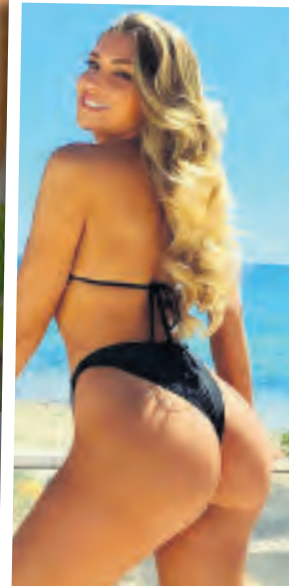

Cautious

A smiling Charles gestured with his arms to continue the tour of the grounds, but Biden yet again turned to the guard, leaving the King chuckling to himself.

Our source said: "The King and the President would have been briefed about the threat and told it had been dealt with."

"But the King is a cautious man and he was clearly concerned about the aged President being out in the open for too long – just in case."

President Biden – whose Irish roots make him wary of Britain – was in the UK on his way to a crunch NATO summit in Lithuania.

Lockdown caused liver disease spike

MEDICAL researchers have found that a jump in alcohol-related liver disease is directly linked to the COVID pandemic. Researchers from Washington State University noted an increasing number of cases of alcohol-related liver illness from 2016 through to 2020.

But the increase was especially sharp in 2020 – the year COVID hit the world – when a 12.4% spike above the 2019 cases was discovered. “Severe liver disease seems to be rising over time, but it appears to have increased even more dramatically during the pandemic,” a spokesman for the study said. “Younger patients and women also had a higher increase in in-hospital mortality compared to their counterparts.”

GIANT COCK 'N' BALLS FOUND IN GIRLS' SCHOOL

TEACHERS at a posh private girls' school were left red-faced when it was pointed out that a new garden feature was shaped exactly like a giant COCK 'N' BALLS!

The £30,000-a-year Presbyterian Ladies' College in Sydney, Australia, inadvertently erected a phallic-looking front garden on its Croydon campus.

Headmaster Paul Burgis said he missed the shape during the design phase, but that a former student who spotted a drone photo had pointed it out.

A school employee also provided "feedback" on the garden gaffe, he said.

"As part of recording the updates we sent a drone up to take pictures.

"At a certain angle from up high, the garden with its room for chairs took on a phallic shape which was unintended and totally unexpected," Burgis said.

"As a result, the architects made some alterations which were completed within 72 hours of the drone pics," he added.

The architectural firm hired for the job did not immediately respond to the issue.

A former student with ongoing ties to the school said the shape of the original garden was "obvious".

"It was unmistakably shaped like a penis and testicles," they said, on condition of anonymity.

"And the immediate response was laughter – 'Surely you've got to be kidding me!'

"Photos have since been circulating among the school as memes, with wording, 'Oh good morning' and various other kinds of funny knob-related jokes."

Brainboxes top love cheat poll

UNIVERSITY graduates are Britain's biggest love cheats.

Researchers found that highly educated people with degrees are most likely to stray while in a relationship.

Some 83 per cent of those who confessed to having an affair said they went to university.

And just 17 per cent of people who don't have a degree admitted cheating.

Of the brainboxes who cheat, 20 per cent have computer science degrees, 18 per cent have business degrees and 14 per cent are management graduates.

The dating site for married couples who want a fling, Married Dating UK, asked 2,000 UK adults if they had cheated and what jobs they do to come up with the recent findings.

Hide-and-seek fugitive found dead in freezer

A MAN who was found dead inside a freezer in an empty home was on the run and jumped in it to hide from cops.

Brandon Buschman, 34 (above), was found in a chest freezer in the cellar of the unoccupied property in Babbitt, Minnesota, last month.

He had an active warrant for his arrest, and police suspect he jumped into the freezer on his own accord to hide but then became trapped inside.

There is no evidence of trauma or injury to his body, according to an autopsy.

The chest freezer is an older model with a latching mechanism on the outside.

"When closed, the freezer is not capable of being pushed open from inside," police said in a statement.

The freezer wasn't working when he went inside as no utilities have been connected to the home for a year and the property has not been occupied since February.

Police did not say what crime Buschman was wanted for.

Cop drones hunt for 'Savile' park flasher

COPS are using DRONES to help catch a serial flasher who has been furiously masturbating in meganonce Jimmy Savile's favourite park.

Officers from West Yorkshire Police are Investigating Incidents of indecent exposure at Roundhay Park in Leeds - where the disgraced BBC presenter had a house.

And as well as cops on electric bikes, unmanned aircraft have been sent aloft to find the culprit.

According to the force, several reports have been made in recent weeks by women walking in the park, prompting concerns about the safety of those visiting the green space on their own.

"Extensive enquiries are ongoing by police and partners to identify suspects," said Detective Chief Inspector Sarah Lambert, of Leeds District Police.

"We have also been using drones in the area."

Teacher admits cemetery romps

SEX MISS GOT THE WILLIES IN GRAVEYARD

FACING
JAIL TIME:
Cali Heikes

A DISGRACED teacher admitted shagging a teenage schoolboy three times a week – including in a cemetery.

Cali Heikes, 26, worked as a science teacher at Winside Public Schools in Nebraska, when she engaged in an “inappropriate relationship” with a 17-year-old male student.

She had sex all around town with the pupil, including sneaking into his parents’ house for a late-night romp and regular visits to a graveyard.

Now Heikes has pleaded guilty to two charges, including first-degree and second-degree abuse by a school employee.

Despite the legal age of sexual consent being 16 in Nebraska, it is illegal for an educator to have sex with a student under the age of 21.

Both charges attract sentences of up to three years, but prosecutors agreed they could be served concurrently.

Prior to the plea deal, the school employee was facing up to 20 years for her crimes.

Heikes was initially arrested on January 22, when authorities looked into a tip-off about their illegal affair, court documents show. Shortly after, she handed in her resignation.

On January 12, cops observed two vehicles leaving the area near Winside Cemetery.

The male student was pulled over and said that he was visiting his pal “Cali”, a police report states.

The pair met up to three times a week to have sex, according to the victim’s sister, with police finding a number of sexts to back up her claims.

Interviews with family members of the schoolboy revealed him asking “how they would feel if he was dating a 25-year-old”.

Body parts strewn across cartel city

COPS say a drug cartel is behind human body parts being left around a city.

A severed human leg was first found hanging from a pedestrian bridge in the city of Toluca, just west of Mexico City.

The rest of the body was left on the street below the bridge, along with handwritten signs by the Familia Michoacana cartel.

Other parts of the body, believed to be a man aged between 35 and 40, were found in another neighbourhood, also with handwritten drug cartel signs nearby.

Parts of at least two other bodies were also found around the city, and the local mayor has appealed for calm.

DEATH THREAT LESBIAN EX SHARED NAKED PICS

A WOMAN was arrested after making threats against her lesbian ex-lover and sharing nude photos of her all over social media.

Liliece Harris, 21, began harassing her ex after their seven-month-long relationship ended, with the victim saying she received a series of threats on Twitter, Facebook and WhatsApp. “I really hate you... you never cared about me! I’m gonna kill you... I’m going for first degree... you’ll be dead soon... I’ll come up to that school and shoot you in your fking face... they won’t be able to find your body when I’m done with you,” Harris wrote, according to a police report.

Homestead, Florida police said Harris (left) made other threats to the victim’s family and uploaded naked photos of her ex online as retaliation when she refused to see her and blocked her number.

Harris has been charged with writing threats and for sexual cyberharassment.

Officials did not name the victim, as the incident was filed as domestic violence.

Snake boffins claim rattlers want a cuddle

THEY may be deadly but snake boffins say that rattlesnakes are in fact CUDDLY!

A new study from Loma Linda University near San Bernardino, California, shows the venomous rattler (above) appears to take comfort in being close to its own kind – much like humans.

The research showed the snakes gain a sense of well-being when they wriggle into a group hug with other rattlers, according to the study published in the journal Frontiers in Ethology.

The findings challenge the notion that reptiles are solitary hunters that display little in the way of complex social behaviour.

Ethology, the study of animal behaviour, has long recognised birds and mammals, including humans, find comfort from being physically close to their own kind, and such proximity makes reptiles more relaxed.

AS AMY NUTTALL PUTS REDHEADS IN THE NEWS...

FLAME-HAIRED BABES ARE HOT!

LOTTIE MAGNE, 32B, FROM MOSCOW

ALEX SIM WISE, 34D, FROM LEWISHAM, SOUTH LONDON

By ANNE COATES news@sundaysport.co.uk

EMMERDALE scorching Amy Nuttall has taken back her hubby, who must follow seven strict rules in their relationship.

Amy, 41, has forgiven Broadchurch actor Andrew Buchan, 44, but says he cannot ever contact his co-star Leila Farzad over claims of an "affair".

Other rules include weekly date nights.

Downton Abbey beauty Amy has dramatically taken him back less than four months after she demanded a divorce.

Amy was left broken in February after Andrew, her husband of 11 years and dad to their two kids, ditched her after reports of a fling with Leila, 39, his co-star in BBC crime thriller Better.

Begging

But that fizzled out quickly, leaving Andrew begging redhead Amy for another chance.

Her seven terms state Andrew must have no contact with Leila at any time, or for any reason.

If he is working away he must also check in via FaceTime, and they must have full access to each other's phones at all times, too.

Why anyone would risk the wrath of a fit and fiery redhead is anyone's guess.

But here are some more gingers who prove that flame-haired babes really are red hot...

#MY SEX FANTASY

'I love the thrill of knowing you could get caught out...'

I LOVE having sex in public places and I've done it anywhere and everywhere!

I've got down and dirty on a plane, a train, and even a bus, a car in a layby, in a field, a cinema, a library, a club, a pub, and even in a children's playground!

And, of course, when on holiday at the beach, in the swimming pool and on a balcony.

I love the thrill of knowing you could get caught by someone at any moment.

I love going at it fast and furious while you can – the orgasm is always so intense!

I did get caught once by a train inspector. I was on the way to London with an ex for a weekend away. We'd had some wine, the carriage was empty and we got really carried away...

The inspector said something inaudible at us and we were very embarrassed. But not enough to never do it again – it felt so naughty and taboo! I'm lucky not to have been arrested really!

At the moment I'm watching lots of dogging porn. It's so seedy.

You've got the element of the outdoors – in woods or car parks – and the element that it's getting filthy with total strangers!

I would love to try it.

My current man said it would be a huge turn on to see me shagging another guy or series of guys, in and out of the car.

Cop's ignored for promotion at 'frat house'

A POLICE officer claims she was sexually harassed and passed over for promotions while working in a frat-like atmosphere where women were referred to as "bitches" and "whores".

Andrea Kess (above), a cop in East Hampton, New York state, claims male officers in the department made an "incalculable number of sexually offensive comments" during her seven years on the job.

"Everyone knows how you get your information," her supervisor Lt Daniel Toia allegedly said in 2021, according to the discrimination complaint.

"It's only because people want to sleep with you. They give you information because they know they can get down your pants."

Kess, who's 42 and still on the job, claimed in the complaint that cops in the department also called sex assaults "Montauk love stories" and referred to the victims with derogatory terms. Montauk is a famed seaside town in the posh area.

Fact me!

AFTER the fall of the Roman Empire, the technology to make concrete was lost for 1,000 years.

Officers hard on heels of foot perv

POLICE are hunting a pervy foot fetishist who fondled ladies' tootsies at a posh resort.

The pervert broke into a luxury resort in Lake Tahoe, Nevada, on two separate occasions to cradle unsuspecting females' feet.

Two women staying at the Club Wyndham South Shore hotel each woke up in the early hours to find the unknown male "fondling their feet," according to the Douglas County Sheriff's Office.

The intruder bolted out of the resort rooms after his victims awoke to the terrifying ordeal.

The two women were staying in separate rooms on the ground floor of the resort and likely left their doors unlocked, cops say.

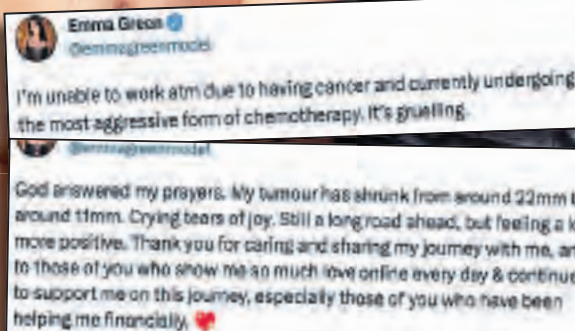

The foot squeeze is still on the loose and both the Douglas Sheriff's Office and the Nevada State Police have increased their patrols in and around the area.

GLAMOUR FAVOURITE EMMA GREEN REVEALS HER HEARTBREAKING CANCER BATTLE...

SPORT
FAVE:
Emma

IT'S MY HARDEST FIGHT EVER!

FOR 15 years, gorgeous Emma Green has been one of the Sport's favourite models.

The fresh-faced beauty from the Welsh valleys won millions of fans and in recent years has become a favourite on OnlyFans with some racy X-rated content.

But now Emma, 36, is facing the hardest battle of her life.

Because earlier this year she was diagnosed with two aggressive forms of breast cancer.

She explained: "I suffer from anxiety which can give me chest pains. I was rubbing my chest and I felt this lump."

As her mum had breast cancer, Emma knew she was at an increased risk and immediately went to the doctor.

She said: "I was told by the first doctor that it was benign. But I had a feeling something was not right, so a week later I asked my partner to take me to A&E for a second opinion."

After an agonising wait, Emma shared the terrible news with her 287,000 Twitter followers... it was cancer.

She said: "I just burst out crying. To be told you have cancer, your first thought is, 'I'm going to die'."

Emma is currently around halfway through a gruelling course of chemotherapy, after which she will undergo surgery and then radiotherapy.

She said: "I have good days and I have bad days. I try to be grateful and I know there are people who are worse off than me."

Blow

"Being a model, losing my hair was a blow. It went within two weeks. I have lost a lot of my confidence. I just don't feel glam, which is difficult for me."

After her diagnosis, Emma made changes in her life to give her body the best chance of fighting the cancer.

She explained: "I cut out meat and sugar and caffeine. I eat organic food now. Anything to help my body be strong and healthy and keep me going through the chemo."

Emma also wants to raise awareness about the illness that kills more than 11,000 women in Britain each year.

She said: "It's so important for women, even of my age and younger, to check themselves and go and get checked out if they find anything out of the ordinary."

"Even if you're told everything is OK, like I was originally, if you are still worried, keep asking."

Emma is grateful to all her fans who have sent her support and who continue to support financially by subscribing to her OnlyFans page.

She said: "I can't work at the moment and I know that I can't put new content on my page but I am so grateful."

"My fans even helped me buy a wig."

GORGEOUS Aaliyah Johnson ISN'T a fan of big willies – because she's got a little fanny!

The Wealdstone, north London hottie isn't afraid to ask for what she wants in the bedroom, but when it comes to having a good ride, 34DD Aaliyah isn't after a big one.

She said: "Size does matter, but not in the way you'd think. Too big hurts. I'd rather have a smaller dick as I am quite tight down below.

"As long as a man is open and energetic in bed, it really doesn't matter what size he is.

"I also hate having to use so much lube that you have to grip on tight to stop yourself falling off."

JUSTIN DUNN'S ROOM 101

WHAT'S ANNOYING HIM THIS WEEK?

Being on Twitter DOESN'T make it true!

WHAT a weird world this is.

Everyone is talking about THAT bloke – yet without having a clue who he is.

Or do we?
The BBC has already told us that it's not anyone in their sports or entertainment departments.

So that pretty much leaves all the guys who work in news, weather, current affairs and documentaries, with the spotlight shining horribly brightly above them.

Being the BBC – awash with our licence fee cash – that means we are talking about hundreds, if not thousands, of male employees.

Which strikes me as pretty unfair on all the men who haven't got their knobs out and sent thirty five grand of OUR money to a troubled teen.

Nonce

Can you imagine the stick some of the kids of famous male BBC employees are getting from their mates right now?

"Is your Dad the nonce? He's a nonce, isn't he?"

This is why the world is so weird.

It's all very well for the cops not to mention someone who hasn't been arrested or charged with any crime.

And the rozzers will always have a careful eye on newspaper pages like these, just in case anyone says the wrong thing.

All of which is understandable – or it was, before 1997, when everyone starting to get a new-fangled thing called "the internet".

That was when everyone decided that they were an investigative journalist because they had the ability to hit a "send" button.

It didn't make them check anything out, of course.

Never mind boring old "facts".

It was just the lure of a blank space on a screen in your living room where anything in your head could suddenly manifest itself into a very public pearl of wisdom.

And yes, journos are as bad as the rest of them – yours truly included.

So without having a clue who it is, or risk getting myself into trouble, I'll leave it there.

Besides, it's guaranteed that the Twitterati will be the first ones reporting it – true or not.

● ANOTHER reason why the world is completely mad revealed itself over the weekend.

I found myself sympathising with someone that, along with many others, I would on any other day absolutely loathe.

But the sight of a smug middle-aged Just Stop Oil cow chucking orange graffiti over former Chancellor George Osborne and his new bride (right) – on their wedding day – was pretty much a game changer.

I had been prepared to begrudgingly agree that JSO's environmental cause was just, if their protest tactics were not. Lots of others muttered the same in our befuddled attempts to sound a bit green.

Not anymore.

Because now we know it's not about saving the polar bears or the grandchildren's future, and it's not anything to do with just stopping oil – which is preposterous nonsense in any case.

No, it's just very bored people with too much time on their hands desperately preening for a bit of attention. And worse still, it works. So I'll shut up about them.

Drink drive suspect bit police dog

A DRUNK man bit a police dog "multiple times" while trying to resist arrest.

Jamal Wing, 47 (above), was pulled over in a car park in Wilmington, Delaware, for speeding.

He jumped out of the car without being told to do so and ignored officers' commands to get back in the vehicle.

The troopers set their dog on Wing while trying to arrest him, but he bit back.

"Wing continued to resist and bit the DSP K9 multiple times," the department said in a statement.

After officers were finally able to subdue Wing, they smelled alcohol on his breath and noticed signs of impairment.

Wing suffered multiple injuries in the scuffle, including a gash above his left eye, and was transported to an area hospital, where he continued his struggle to escape.

Wing faces several charges and is being held at the Howard R. Young Correctional Institution.

Book is returned to library after 119yrs

LIBRARIANS were stunned when a 19th-century book was returned – more than 119 years after it was first checked out.

The book, James Clerk Maxwell's An Elementary Treatise on Electricity, had somehow made its way to a donation pile in West Virginia, nearly 900 miles from its home at the New Bedford Free Public Library in Massachusetts.

Stewart Plein, curator of rare books at West Virginia University Libraries, plucked the centuries-old science book from the charity bin and noticed it had last been stamped in February 1904.

He contacted Jodi Goodman, the special collections librarian in New Bedford, to alert her to the find and organise its long-awaited return to the Massachusetts library.

New Bedford Public Library Director Olivia Melo said: "It's in good shape and probably got passed down the family."

Judge throws out charges against TV doc and girlfriend

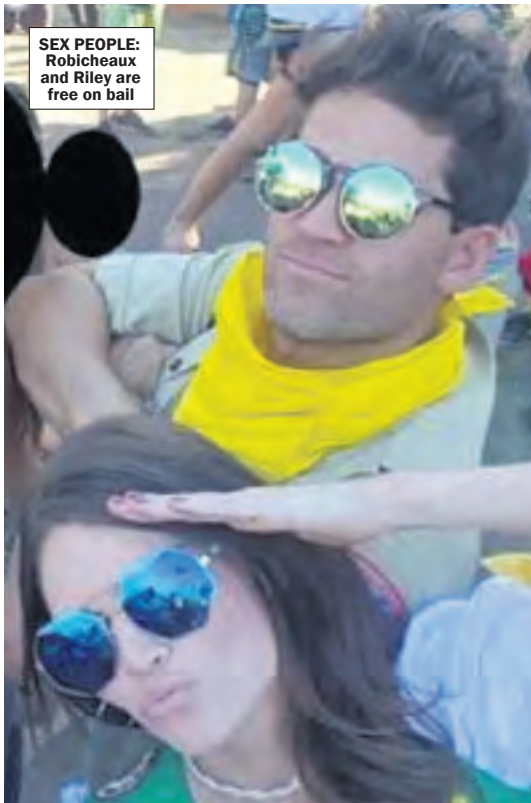

WE'RE SWINGERS, NOT SEX BEASTS

ON TRIAL:
Grant and Cerissa

SEX PEOPLE:
Robicheaux and Riley are free on bail

A JUDGE threw out sexual assault charges against telly surgeon Grant Robicheaux and his girlfriend Cerissa Riley, who explained they were swingers after being accused of drugging and sexually assaulting women.

Judge Michael Leversen ruled that there was insufficient evidence to support allegations the couple had drugged and sexually assaulted their two accusers.

Riley and Robicheaux have been freed on bail ahead of a potential trial on lesser charges of drug and gun possession and poisoning.

Predators

The ruling concludes years of courtroom debate on whether the high-profile couple were swingers or repeated sexual predators.

Prosecutors alleged that Robicheaux and Riley met two unnamed women on separate occasions at clubs in Newport Beach, California, and they became friends.

The couple allegedly bought them drinks and shared cocaine with one of them, intoxicating them before they came to their Balboa Peninsula home half-naked.

"What are the chances

By COLIN HURST
news@sundaysport.co.uk

that two women, strangers to one another, will describe similar nights years apart?" Deputy Attorney General Namita Patel asked the judge. "And what is their motive to make it up?"

One woman claimed she was assaulted on October 2, 2016, at the surgeon's home. She told investigators she had taken a few sips of a drink Robicheaux bought her after meeting the couple while out with a roommate.

She said she "blanked out," waking up half-naked in Robicheaux's bedroom.

When she was unable to rouse her roommate, she found the doctor and asked him what happened.

The altercation turned physical, and she accused Robicheaux of hitting her before Riley stepped in and told him: "It's going too far, it is not worth it."

Neighbours called cops after hearing screams but the woman told police she had not been sexually assaulted.

The second victim told police she met Robicheaux and Riley in 2017, when they went to a bar and she took cocaine after Riley offered it to her in the bathroom. The next thing she recalled was walking up the stairs of Robicheaux's home.

The woman told cops Robicheaux and Riley took her shirt off but she was able to lock herself into the bathroom.

She said Riley pleaded with her to unlock the door and told the victim: "He makes me do this."

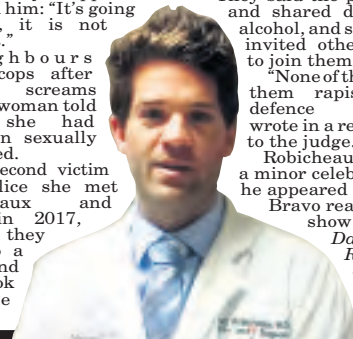

Prosecutors said police found cocaine, MDMA and GHB – a "date rape drug" – during a search of Robicheaux's Newport Beach home. They also found two unregistered assault weapons.

Robicheaux and Riley's defence attorneys argued that the good-looking couple were swingers and only had consensual sex with the women and did not drug them.

They said the pair used and shared drugs and alcohol, and sometimes invited other women to join them in sex.

"None of that makes them rapists," the defence attorneys wrote in a recent brief to the judge.

Robicheaux became a minor celebrity after he appeared on the Bravo reality TV show Online Dating Rituals of the American Male.

PEAKY BLINDERS STAR REVEALS NEWS OF EXTENDED NUDITY...

ATOM BOMB FLICK 'WILL BE A TITFEST'

ACTOR Cillian Murphy says his upcoming film Oppenheimer will feature a shedload of NUDITY.

The Peaky Blinders star said there would be "prolonged full nudity" scenes with his co-star, Florence Pugh, 27.

Murphy, 47, said he couldn't give much away about the general plot of Christopher Nolan's new flick due to "strict restrictions".

But he did disclose there would also be "pretty heavy" scenes with Emily Blunt, who plays his wife in the upcoming movie.

Suggesting that he and his co-stars have an electrifying on-screen connection, Cillian also mentioned he and his co-stars had to perform chemistry tests.

He said: "They put two actors in a room to see if there's any spark and have all the producers and director watching. I don't know what metric they use, and it seems so outrageously silly, but sometimes you get a chemistry and nobody knows why."

He also spoke about how he previously co-starred in A Quiet Place II with Emily and their subsequent established connection made their scenes more magical.

He added: "You can be immediately vulnerable and open, and try stuff.

There were moments where I couldn't have saying, 'I couldn't have done that if it wasn't with you'."

In the new film, Murphy (right) plays the leading character of J. Robert Oppenheimer, portraying the director of the Los Alamos Laboratory responsible for the creation of the first atomic bomb in the Manhattan project.

Florence (left) plays his former love interest.

THE WORLD FAMOUS AGONY Page

Dear Kelly,

I WORK for an advertising agency and my boss is a sexy blonde in her early 40s. I'm 22 and joined the company as a graduate last year.

As soon as I arrived she was flirting with me and at the end of my first week she gave me a blowjob for "working so hard".

I couldn't believe my luck!

A week later she invited me to her place and I boned her.

She's got a great body and let me have her up the arse. A few days later I had her and her pal - a tasty brunette in her late 30s.

She told me that they have regular threesomes with their "toyboys".

I feel used and wonder if I should stop shagging my boss. What do you reckon?

TD, Leeds

Kelly says...

LIGHTEN up and enjoy yourself with these sexy older ladies

Dear Kelly,

MY missus is a right little tart - and I love it.

She likes to dress up in skimpy clothes and throw herself all over men when we're on a night out, not caring if I'm there.

I get so turned on when I see her getting groped and snogged by a complete stranger.

The other night I watched as some bloke fondled her tits and fingered her in the middle of a nightclub.

But now she wants to take it further and shag them.

As you might imagine, I'm not keen. How can I stop her?

DP, York

Kelly says...

YOU'LL really have to explain to her how you feel - it could end your relationship.

Midlands lass won't take it up the Brum

Dear Kelly,

IT may sound a bit weird but there's something about a Brummie accent that really gets me going.

I know most people prefer the sound of voices from their own region, but when a Wolverhampton lass or Dudley babe pipes up, my dick goes rigid.

Just lately I've been tuning into Brummie radio station through the internet just so I can fill my ears with those wonderful tones the women presenters have.

One was on the radio the other day blathering on about something or other and I soon had my hand on my tool, tossing myself off.

I had no idea what she looked like, but her drawl soon had me in ecstasy.

I thought I'd cracked it when I found a Midlander of my own.

She works down the library and I took her round the back of non-fiction and I asked jovially if she'd take it up the Brum.

She slapped my face and stormed off to report me to management.

What did I do wrong?

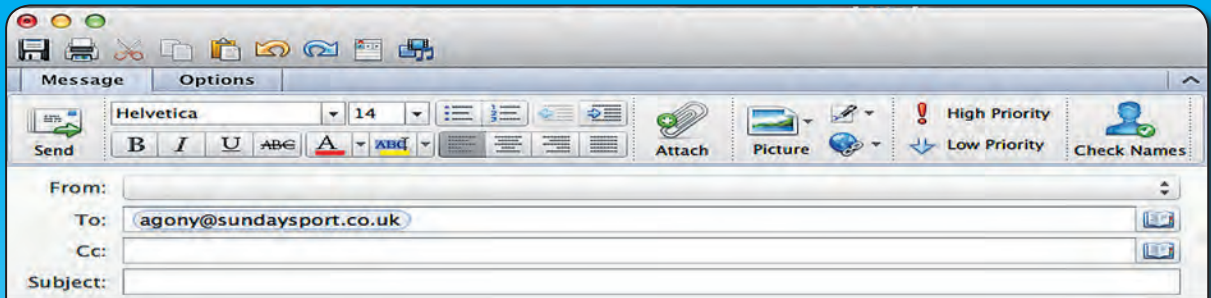

FC, Manchester

Kelly says...

MAYBE she didn't like YOUR accent.

AGONY IS BROUGHT TO YOU IN ASSOCIATION

WELCOME to the World famous Sport Agony page! No other newspaper's agony aunts can offer the level of advice – or experience – than our own Agony Angels! This week KELLY MCGREGOR has been reading through your letters. And here's her advice for you...

Hubby can't keep up with my need for rougher sex!

Dear Kelly,

I'VE been married to my husband for nine years and our sex life has got boring.

He's a great guy in most other ways but his bedroom moves are always the same.

We have a bit of foreplay, I give him a blowjob, swallow his spunk, then it's the same old wait for him to get hard again and climb-on-do-it-roll-off routine.

The trouble is he's too nice and doesn't realise that most women – myself included – want sometimes is some rough, dirty sex.

That's why I ended up having an affair with a guy in my office.

Mouth

The first time we had sex was amazing – everything I'd longed for.

I kissed him passionately and he thrust his tongue hungrily in my mouth as I rubbed the bulge in his trousers.

He pushed the papers on my desk aside, threw me roughly over it, pulling my thighs apart and literally ripped off my panties.

He grinned wickedly as he unzipped his pants to reveal his hard cock.

Then he grabbed my hair and pushed my head down and I took his big dick in my mouth.

I sucked him hard until I could feel the surge of a throbbing climax in his balls.

We were hot and sweaty as he rolled me over and rammed his dick into my soaking pussy, shagging me doggy-style while pulling gently on my hair.

DO YOU HAVE A SEX PROBLEM?

email:

agony@sundaysport.co.uk

Mail: Agony, Sunday Sport, 860 Chester Road, Stretford, Manchester M32 0QJ

I yelled at him to fk me harder until I could feel a massive orgasm swelling within me. It wasn't long before we were both climaxing and I felt completely satisfied and fulfilled for the first time in ages.

I then sucked him hard again and we did it standing up against a wall.

I've been seeing this bloke for three months and it has helped my marriage, as my need for wild sex is being met, but I can't help feeling guilty.

Should I confess all to my poor hubby?
SM, Leeds

Kelly says...

IT'D be better if you just told him you needs.

Dear Kelly,

I'M a 42-year-old woman having trouble finding a toy boy who can keep up with me. I've never been married and I like to orgasm at least five times a day but, like I said, I've hit a bit of a sticky patch lately. My last fling was with a 22-year-old gym instructor with an eight-inch cock.

I used to love running my tongue over the length of his shaft while it was still limp. There's nothing more exciting than when you feel a cock stiffening in your mouth.

Anyway, when he was hard I would let him do whatever he wanted to me.

He used to love tying me to the bed and pulling my long blonde hair as he thrust into me.

Problem is, after his third or fourth orgasm he would be spent, just like the 12 or so before him.

Any ideas on where I can find a lover who can keep up with me?

MP, Kent

Kelly says...

TRY a cardboard box marked 'Rampant Rabbit'.

Dear Kelly,

I'M 18 and have just started taking driving lessons.

My instructor is about 40, blonde and really sexy – I was stunned when I first saw her.

For my second lesson she wore a really skimpy low-cut top, which showed off her huge tits, and a short skirt.

Needless to say, I found it really difficult to concentrate on my driving with a massive hard-on.

For my third lesson she told me to drive into the country. When we parked up I thought it was to practise some manoeuvres.

Sexual

We did – sexual ones. She took her top off and just as I was about to grab hold of her tits she unzipped my pants and started sucking my dick. It was as if all my dreams had come true.

After I'd come all over her boobs, she took her knickers off and lay back, spread her legs and let me pump her.

Since then, we have a shag after every lesson.

The only problem is that she's put me in for my test, but if I pass there will be no more sex sessions.

What do you think I should do?

PT, Merseyside

Kelly says...

YOU could always fail your test on purpose!

Dear Kelly,

I WORK as a mechanic on garden machinery and often get called out to fix lawnmowers at posh homes.

The job is boring but recently I was called out to have a look at a broken-down ride-on lawnmower.

The house was massive with huge lawns and the mower had been left outside so I could get straight to work.

It was a hot day and I stripped off my T-shirt.

I had only been there for five minutes when I looked up and a lady was standing in the doorway. She had long dark hair and huge tits.

She was wearing a white blouse and a white skirt and the sun was shining through the material and I could clearly see her dark mound.

She said: "I thought I'd bring you a drink." I couldn't believe my eyes and I felt my cock start to stiffen.

I stood up and accepted the drink and we chatted for a few minutes. Then it happened. She started stroking my arm and bare chest and I wasn't really sure how to react.

But when she tugged down my jeans, unzipped her skirt and let it fall and said "lick me".

I didn't need asking twice and quickly buried my tongue into her pink pussy.

She then lay back on the ride-on lawnmower and said: "Fk me hard."

Within seconds I was thrusting deep inside her and she orgasmed time after time and I could feel her love juices trickling round my balls.

After I shot my load deep inside her she quickly pulled her clothes back on.

She said never to tell anyone what happened as she had too much to lose and disappeared back in the house.

Should I go back?
FG, Peterborough

Kelly says...

WAIT until she calls you again – it probably won't be long.

SEXY Bianca Deacy gives the term naturist a whole new meaning – as she spreads herself NAKED by the sea.

The 32D model and dancer is a member of the World Society for the Protection of Animals.

And naughty Bianca really gets in touch with her WILD side in these racy topless snaps.

The Richmond, Surrey-based brunette was pictured lying on a bed of pebbles, with only a few shells to cover her exposed fanny.

She said: "I love being at one with nature."

SONNY LISTON

Sonny Liston a knockout for York Cup

SONNY Liston will be attempting to land a knockout blow at York on Saturday when he lines up in the John Smith's Cup.

Ralph Beckett's charge was outboxed by stablemate Jimi Hendrix when second in the Royal Hunt Cup at Royal Ascot but now has the chance to get the judge's verdict as one of 33 who remain in contention for the valuable £200,000 contest.

Owned by Chelsea Thoroughbreds, the four-year-old has not had his hand raised since striking on debut when trained by Charlie Hills, but connections are banking on the gelding relishing a step up to 10 furlongs to return him to the winner's enclosure.

"He runs off his old mark and we wanted to get him in somewhere off that mark," said Emma Spencer, managing director of Chelsea Thoroughbreds and also racing manager for the owners.

"He's proven over a mile and a quarter and although he didn't stay in the Derby, he was third at Chester in the Dee Stakes and then he was third in a Group Three at Goodwood."

"So there is a case for saying that a mile and a quarter is his ideal trip and if he runs like he did the other day and he seems to be in a good place then the race could really suit him."

Richard Fahey's course-and-distance winner and last year's fourth Spirit Dancer is also among the possibles for the historic 10-furlong handicap, with Simon and Ed Crisford's Sea The Casper, William Haggas' Amleto and Andrew Balding's Nobel all potential improvers who head to the Knavesmire appearing unexposed and on the back of victories last time.

Also looking to go one better than at Royal Ascot is Kerdos who will line-up in the John Smith's City Walls Stakes.

TRAINER: Ralph Beckett

The three-year-old son of Profitable was downed late on by Rhythm N Hooves when a silver medalist in the Palace of Holyroodhouse Stakes and trainer Clive Cox hopes he can get in the mix once again as he steps up to Listed level.

"Kerdos ran a blinder at Ascot and the Listed race at York, the City Walls Stakes, that would be our next target for him," said the Lambourn-based handler.

"Obviously it is against older horses, but he's a progressive three-year-old who we are really happy is going the right way."

"We know the family very well. I trained his sire Profitable and he's out of a half-sister to Priceless who was a Group Two winner in the Temple Stakes at Haydock. They normally progress with age and this fella seems to fit that profile well."

Kerdos is one of 17 possible runners for the five-furlong Listed event, with Edward Bethell's Regional chief featuring in the opposition following his Achilles Stakes victory at Haydock last month.

Achilles second and third Equilateral (Charlie Hills) and Raasel (Mick Appleby) are also involved, while Fahey's Great State was a winner of the Listed Westow Stakes over course and distance during the Dante meeting and will be bidding to provide his Malton-based handler with more success at one of his local tracks.

ALL THE TOP TIPS FOR TODAY'S RACING

STAR SIRE: Harry Angel

Madonna can hit the right notes

IVORY MADONNA can finally break her duck in the Free Tips Daily On attheraces.com Maiden Fillies' Stakes at Lingfield.

Richard Spencer's Dark Angel filly ran several meritorious races in exalted company last season, but failed to get her head in front.

When she was dropped in class on her final outing to get that all-important 'one' next to her name, she was beaten at odds-on at Newcastle.

Strengthen

However, it is easy to forgive her for that, as she was running in her sixth race since the end of May and it may have just been a case of going to the well once too often.

If we take form like her third in the Albany and close fourth in the Sweet Solera at face value, then she is well up to winning an ordinary novice event.

Returning from 289 days off the track, she has been given time to strengthen up and if she has trained on will take all the beating.

Richard Hannon's Skallywag Bay remains in good heart and should be followed in the Sky Sports

By MIKE FRANCIS

Racing HD Virgin 519 Handicap.

In his last three runs he has finished second at Windsor, won at Lingfield and then gone close again back at Windsor off 3lb higher.

He is unbeaten on the all-weather, so a return to Lingfield is another plus.

Defying Orders looks a likely type in the At The Races App Expert Tips Nursery Handicap.

Trained by Archie Watson, she is a daughter of Soldier's Call, whom Watson also trained.

She has shown ability on all three outings to date and an opening mark of 68 looks fair enough.

In form trainer Karl Burke has enjoyed a really profitable few days and can add another winner to his tally when Harvanna makes the journey to Yarmouth for the British Stallion Studs EBF Fillies' Restricted Novice Stakes.

Only third of four on her debut at Catterick, she took a huge step forward next time out at York.

Given how strongly she stayed on to win that day, it is a little surprising to see her still over five furlongs but she sharpened up so much from her first to her second run, Burke must think she will do so once again.

Tom Dascombe's Tenhotfourcrazy went close on debut and can go one better in the Every Race Live On Racing TV Restricted Maiden Fillies' Stakes at Catterick.

This filly by Harry Angel cost €35,000 at the Goresbridge breeze-up, and almost gave connections an immediate return on their investment.

Sent off at 8-1 in a field of seven at Bath, she was beaten just a short head by a filly who already had two runs in the bank.

Tackle

You would imagine she can only improve for that experience.

John and Thady Gosden run two in the Unibet 3 Noviboosts Per Day EBF Novice Stakes at Kempton and slight preference is for Lion's Pride over Middle Earth.

Well bred, Lion's Pride is by Roaring Lion out of Crimson Ribbon, meaning he is a half-brother to the recent Gold Cup winner Courage Mon Ami.

Beaten half a length on his Newcastle debut over 10 furlongs, he has another extra furlong to tackle this time and it should bring about plenty of improvement.

Derby day comeback only start for Smith

HULL COACH WANTS MORE AFTER THRILLING WIN AT RIVAL ROVERS

SATISFIED: Tony Smith

HULL FC head coach Tony Smith sounded a note of caution despite his side reclaiming derby bragging rights with a stirring second-half comeback to sink Hull KR 16-6 at Craven Park.

Smith conceded his side's first-half show was not up to scratch before an Adam Swift brace and a try from Ligi Sao (right) helped lift them to a win that maintains their hopes of muscling into the play-off picture.

Dismissing any notion of revenge for Good Friday's 40-0 mauling at the MKM Stadium, the ex-KR chief, who was returning to his former club for the first time, said: "It's important regardless of who we're playing – whether it was against the Robins or not."

"I'm pleased for our supporters because they kept wearing the shirts all year around the city, and they can wear it a bit more proudly at the moment."

Smith knows his side still

RUGBY LEAGUE
By JACK FARLEY

have plenty of improvements to make after a win that was marred by Tex Hoy's early exit with a recurrence of his recent hamstring injury, which is likely to rule him out for a number of weeks.

"I'm not going to sit here and be overly buoyant about every aspect just because we won and (say) it papers over the cracks, because it's not me."

Laugh

"But I'm delighted we showed some grit and graft and it was only 6-0 at half-time."

It took almost an hour for Swift to cancel out Jack Walker's early try for Rovers, and his match-clinching second capped a fine response by a player whose errors on the wing were a major reason why the visitors went into the break pointless.

"He (Swift) was lucky to have two legs – I could have blown them off at half-time," joked Smith.

"We had a bit of a laugh about it at the end of the game. It's good that he was able to bounce back and overcome some adversities."

"Some players, if they do a few things wrong, they put their heads down but there was none of that."

Robins chief Willie Peters admitted his side face a tough end to the campaign after a loss that threatens their hopes of retaining a top six slot and delivered more unwanted woe on the injury front.

Kane Linnett will miss Friday's clash against Leeds at Headingley after failing a head injury assessment, while Mikey Lewis also faces a test after going off late.

Peters said: "We're in a tough spot, there's no doubt about that."

"In terms of personnel we're losing people each and every week, and what I want to see through this period is that we remain who we are."

"We've been a team who work hard for each other all year and I can't fault today, but it comes down to experienced players and FC had some experienced players who finished the game really well."

Wrong

Peters pointed out Shaun Kenny-Dowall's 58th-minute yellow card for a high tackle on Jake Clifford as a pivotal moment in FC wresting the initiative.

"No doubt it hurt us," added Peters.

"All day we were throwing long balls and putting kicks in that weren't on, and they made the half-break and Shaun did the wrong thing."

LOOKING UP: Rohan Smith

Rhinos boss wants charge up the table

LEEDS coach Rohan Smith was happy to see his produce a "gritty" performance to see off fellow Super League play-off hopefuls Salford 16-14 at the AJ Bell Stadium.

Salford fought back from 12-4 down to lead 14-12 but Leeds held their nerve to secure two points which lift them to seventh.

Smith said: "It was a good contest between two teams that like to do things differently. There was some committed defence, 50-50 plays and a lot of drama in the game."

"The game lacked a bit of rhythm due to errors and stoppages which maybe affected both teams. But it was pleasing to find a way to win – and it was a good hard battle which could have gone either way."

Leeds led 12-4 at half-time thanks to tries from Cameron Smith and Ash Handley and two goals from Rhysie Martin. All Salford could muster in response was a 20th-minute try from Tim Lafai.

But Salford came out firing on all cylinders at the start of the second half, scoring twice in the first eight minutes of the second half to lead 14-12.

Lafai claimed his second try after taking a high kick from Brodie Croft then another kick created a touchdown for Ken Sio.

A huge brawl 16 minutes from time resulted in yellow cards for Mikolaj Oledzki of Leeds and Chris Atkin of Salford, proving the precursor for an explosive finish.

But it was Leeds who coped better with the pressure – a Martin penalty levelled the scored with 12 minutes left and when Marc Sneyd sent a dropout sailing into touch on the full, Martin stepped up again to kick the goal from in front of the posts to make it 16-14.

Smith was disappointed with the way his side allowed Salford back into the game at the start of the second half.

He said: "The first set after half-time was really disappointing. We have been strong at limiting teams' opportunities but I think we were trying too hard with our line speed."

"It was another game when there were no tries conceded by us from running play. Salford are a quality team who are well coached and believe in what they do so I was really pleased with the way we stuck together at the end of the game and I think we deserved the win."

Clashes for the Ashes hot up

IT'S STILL ALL TO PLAY FOR

READY TO GO: Wood

Wood all fired up to deliver

ENGLAND quick Mark Wood is eager to hit Australia with more "thunderbolts" in Manchester next week and aims to prove "lightning strikes twice" after his Headingley heroics.

Wood marked his return to Ashes cricket with a man-of-the-match showing in Leeds, taking match figures of seven for 100 and hitting 40 vital runs from just 16 deliveries.

His efforts helped change the tone of the series, getting England on the board after back-to-back defeats and leaving the path open for the hosts to reclaim the urn.

Wood's raw pace provided an X-factor that had been absent at Edgbaston and Lord's, with his first ball of the match doubling up as England's fastest of the summer.

He continued cranking it up in his first red-ball outing for seven months, at one stage reaching 96.5mph during a ferocious opening spell, and Australia's batting looked entirely less assured due to his mere presence on the park.

Wood revealed his England captain and Durham team-mate Ben Stokes had given him one simple instruction when he let him loose.

"Ben just asked me, 'Are you ready? Are you ready to bowl some thunderbolts?'" I said yes and that was it," he said.

"He was ready to unleash me. I know him well and he knows me well. Having that relationship with someone makes it easier."

Asked if he was ready to dish out more of the same at Emirates Old Trafford next Wednesday, Wood replied with a grin:

"Absolutely. Lightning strikes twice, eh?"

Wood is arguably the most consistently fast bowler ever to play for England, a crown he likely lacks only due to the absence of accurate historical data.

But the physical exertion the 33-year-old puts himself through means he has had to endure long spells out.

Since debuting in 2015 he has played just 29 of England's 109 Tests.

There are just three days between the fourth and fifth games of the series, but he fully intends to be on parade for both.

"It's a big ask, but one I've done before and I will lean on that experience in Australia to try to do it again," he said.

ENGLAND sparked the men's Ashes back into life at Headingley, claiming a three-wicket win that leaves them 2-1 down with two Tests to play.

Here, Midweek Sport looks at how the series is set and the key issues affecting each side.

HOW IMPORTANT WAS ENGLAND'S WIN IN THE THIRD TEST?

After losing narrowly at Edgbaston and Lord's, it was do or die in Leeds. By getting over the line they stopped the Australian juggernaut in its tracks and kept the intrigue of a gripping series burning. England have played some compelling cricket but would have found it hard to talk their way out of a 3-0 scoreline that would have ended their hopes of regaining the urn. Now the country's cricket fans can enjoy another week of hype and expectation.

WHO HAS THE MOMENTUM?

Ever since Jonny Bairstow's controversial stumping on the final day at Lord's, England have played their cricket with greater edge and steel. They may not admit it, but the controversial incident appeared to awaken an extra level of competitive edge that had yet to surface. Deep down, the tourists may already be regretting riling up their opponents with an opportunistic dismissal that raised their hackles. But when it was put to Australia captain Pat

CRICKET By JOHN ANTHONY

Cummins that England may have the elusive 'momentum' he rejected the notion, explaining his position in the simplest terms: by reciting the series scoreline.

HAVE ENGLAND BELATEDLY FOUND THEIR BEST TEAM?

Both Chris Woakes and Mark Wood had to wait for their chance to make an impression this summer, but the pair made up for lost time at Headingley. They shared 13 of the 20 Australia wickets to fall, with Wood's raw pace and Woakes' reliability elevating the attack to its best performance yet. They then saw their side home with bat on day four and it is already hard to imagine either man making way at Emirates Old Trafford or The Kia Oval. One change does look certain for the fourth Test, with record wicket-taker James Anderson all but guaranteed his place at his home ground and Ollie Robinson in line for a rest following his fitness issues last week.

WILL BAIRSTOW KEEP THE GLOVES?

England made a tough selection call at the start of the campaign when they axed Ben Foakes, a man they repeatedly trumpeted as the best wicketkeeper in the world, to make room for the returning Bairstow. The Yorkshireman was the standout player of last year's 'Bazball' bonanza but his return behind the stumps has been troubling. He has put down seven catches and a stumping so far, with his movement behind the stumps apparently affected by the horror leg-break that forced him out of the game for nine months. But there is nothing in the mood music to suggest England are about to make a U-turn on Foakes and ditch a player with Bairstow's seniority. It is clearly a gamble, but one they seem committed to.

HOW FIT IS BEN STOKES?

The England captain is very clearly, very visibly close to breaking point. He was really desperate to play as an all-action all-rounder but has chipped in just 29 overs across six innings and did not bowl at all at Headingley. Even batting is putting him through the ringer due to his longstanding left knee problem. Watching Stokes grimace, wince and hobble his way through an innings has become par for the course but he has somehow retained his effectiveness and is the second highest run-scorer on either side. Stokes may well require a long break soon, but while the Ashes is alive he is surely going nowhere.

through the ringer due to his longstanding left knee problem. Watching Stokes grimace, wince and hobble his way through an innings has become par for the course but he has somehow retained his effectiveness and is the second highest run-scorer on either side. Stokes may well require a long break soon, but while the Ashes is alive he is surely going nowhere.

WHAT DOES OLD TRAFFORD HOLD?

First and foremost, England will be hoping for another sporty pitch with enough pace, carry and sideways movement to keep their bowlers interested. The Lancashire ground staff have typically done a good job of delivering surfaces that fit the bill and the home side rounded up South Africa cheaply twice last summer en route to an innings victory.

But the last Ashes clash in Manchester also offers a possible warning. England were fresh from Stokes' 2019 miracle when they pitched up in Lancashire and lost by 185 runs, guaranteeing the tourists would retain the urn. Australia will be eager to recreate their excited celebrations four years on, while England know all too well how it feels to see their surge fall flat.

EVERTON BOSS TURNS TO ASH

ASHLEY Young is in talks with EVERTON following his departure from Aston Villa.

The 38-year-old is a free agent having left Villa at the end of his contract. A move to Goodison Park could be next, as it is understood that things are moving in a positive direction on that front.

Young made more than 100 appearances for Watford before joining Villa, for the first of two stints with the club, in 2007.

He subsequently signed for Manchester United in 2011 and won the Premier League, FA Cup, League Cup and Europa League during nine years at Old Trafford.

Young moved on to Inter Milan in 2020 and helped them claim the Serie A title, becoming the third Englishman to win Italy's top prize after Jimmy Greaves and Gerry Hitchens in 1963.

The 39-times capped England international, who can play as a left-back or left winger, then rejoined Villa in 2021.

He made 32 appearances last season, and 250 for Villa across his two spells.

TOTTENHAM have announced the signing of attacker Manor Solomon on a free transfer.

Spurs moved to bring former Fulham loanee Solomon to the club after he was able to cancel his deal with Shakhtar Donetsk.

The diminutive winger has agreed a five-year contract with Tottenham after he returned to the country from holiday last weekend and passed his medical on Monday.

Solomon was allowed to cancel his contract with Shakhtar and sign for Spurs after FIFA in May extended its temporary employment rules relating to the war in Ukraine.

Due to Russia's invasion of Ukraine last year, foreign players contracted to clubs affiliated to Ukrainian or Russian football associations can "unilaterally suspend their employment" until June 30 2024, provided teams are informed of the suspension in writing by July 1.

With Solomon's previous terms with Shakhtar due to expire on December 31, he was able to become a free agent after he exercised the right to suspend his current employment with the Ukraine outfit.

The wide forward becomes the fourth addition completed by Tottenham this summer, with Dejan Kulusevski's loan move being made permanent while last month Guglielmo Vicario and James Maddison sealed transfers to the Premier League club.

Solomon said: "I'm so delighted and excited to be joining this fantastic football club. It's truly an honour to be here and I can't wait to get started. To dare is to do!"

The Israel international showed flashes of potential during his loan with Fulham last season despite waiting until January to make his debut due to a serious knee injury.

Solomon could face old club Shakhtar in a friendly on August 6 after it was announced that Spurs would host the Ukraine champions.

IT'S ALL OVER FOR USYK SAYS DUBOIS

DANIEL Dubois insists he will end Oleksandr Usyk's reign as a heavyweight world champion when they clash in Poland on August 26.

Mandatory challenger Dubois is fighting for the WBA, IBF and WBO belts that Usyk initially seized from Joshua and then defended in two dramatic fights between the 2012 Olympic gold medalists.

A crowd of 43,000 will gather at the Tarczyński Arena in Wrocław for what is seen as a routine title defence for the Ukrainian – but Dubois has other ideas.

The 25-year-old from London insists he is firing on all cylinders after coming through a tough win against Kevin Lerena in December, during which he was knocked down three times in the opening round while struggling with a knee injury.

BOXING By MIKE FRANCIS

"The knee is fine, that's all cleared up now," said Dubois, as the rivals came together in Warsaw earlier this week for the first press conference.

"I'm in a training camp, I'm running and everything is going well.

"I'm grateful for this opportunity and I'm ready to take it with both hands.

"This has been a long time coming and I'm ready to take it on. Usyk has been a great champion but everything with a beginning has an end and I'm ready."

Usyk will be fighting in front of a partisan crowd after over one million Ukrainian refugees relocated to Poland to escape Russia's invasion of their homeland.

Adding to the significance of the occasion is that the fight unfolds two days after Ukraine's Independence Day, while Usyk also won his first cruiserweight title against Krzysztof Glowacki in Gdansk in 2016.

"First of all I want to thank the guys who are defending Ukraine now," said the unbeaten 36-year-old.

"It's only because of them doing that, that we have the opportunity to defend our titles and bring glory to our country and the flag of our country.

"I'm really happy to be back in Poland. This country has greeted me well.

"I became the WBO cruiserweight champion here and then over the next years I collected several belts. Now I'm back in Poland here to defend them.

IT'S THE START OF A NEW REIGN

KANE STILL ABLE SAYS NEW BOSS

Postman wants Harry to carry on delivering up front for Tottenham

NEW Tottenham head coach Ange Postecoglou has not asked for any assurances over Harry Kane's future, but will use this week's meeting with the forward to lay out his vision to make the club successful.

Postecoglou faced the media for the first time and talk quickly turned to Kane, who is attracting interest from Bayern Munich amid reports the Bundesliga champions have bid for the England captain.

Kane will return to training on today and ex-Celtic boss Postecoglou revealed how he expects the conversation to go.

"I haven't had any assurances and I wouldn't expect any assurances," Postecoglou explained. "That's just my nature. I just kind of go along and try to concentrate on the things I know right now."

"What I know right now is that Harry is part of this squad and he's looking forward to training and being amongst these players and starting to work together."

"I don't think it's my role to treat people in a manner because of their circumstances. I'm big on treating everyone the same and Harry has already entrenched himself in the history of this football club."

"He's a very important part. He's one of the premier strikers in the world and I want him involved. My conversation with him will be about how we can make this club successful and I've got no doubts that's what he wants as well."

"I doubt it's going to be defined in the manner that people think it's going to be. It's not going to be a conversation where we walk out of the room and have an understanding. I don't want that kind of conversation."

"What I want is to introduce myself to Harry and give him my vision of the club and get a sense what he thinks the club needs to do to be successful and walk out on that training pitch and make it happen."

Tottenham's stance on Kane has not changed since Manchester City tried to sign the forward in 2021.

City's advances were turned down and Spurs plan to reject any bids for the forward this summer despite his contract entering its final 12 months.

Commit

Kane is not the only senior figure at the club with an uncertain future. Captain Hugo Lloris is expected to depart and a bloated squad – after 12 players have returned from loan spells – will need to be trimmed.

Postecoglou added: "We're in that stage, like most clubs, where you know there will be activity between now and the start of the season and the end of the window. There will be some players who won't be here and some players that will come in."

"Again in my mind, I try to keep that with the understanding that until something is certain, I'm not going to commit myself either way to whether a player is going to be here or not. There's no point in wasting energy on something that may or may not happen."

"So far the lads we've had in have been excellent. They've been brilliant with the staff in adapting and implementing the things I want and we'll keep moving along."

"We'll get the rest of the squad back in the next couple of days so it will be great to see everyone."

Postecoglou will attempt to bring in a contrasting style of football to Spurs' last three managers with Jose Mourinho, Nuno Espirito Santo and Antonio Conte all favouring a pragmatic approach with counter-attacking football.

The Australian laid out his plans to bring back the aggressive, dominant football that is intrinsically linked to Tottenham's history.

"Anyone that has charted the course of my career will know if you watch my teams play, they all have the same basic elements in there," the 57-year-old said.

"We want to be an aggressive team, a dominant team, a team who takes the game to every opposition home and away.

"I think for me the history of this football club kind of suggests that is the best fit for it.

"I love a build, I love a rebuild. That is where I feel I am at my best.

Tough

"Now my goal is to try and make some special moments here and create something special for this great football club as well."

Postecoglou described Celtic as a "bucket list" club for managers as he tipped continuing success under his replacement Brendan Rodgers.

He was asked if leaving Glasgow was a difficult decision.

"Yes it was a tough decision," he said. "It's a special club. If you have a bucket list as a manager of football clubs you want to manage, that is probably one of them.

"The supporters are not really supporters, the club is an extension of them, it's a family.

"We had a brilliant two years. We had some fantastic success and great moments within that.

"I will cherish them, but I am the kind of guy who loves a challenge.

"This challenge when it came along had all the elements I need to get going again.

"I know Celtic have appointed Brendan Rodgers, who is an outstanding manager, and they will continue to have success.

"They have great players, great infrastructure, it is a great football club. I was very fortunate to be allowed that responsibility for a couple of years.

"Now my goal is to try and make some special moments here and create something special for this great football club as well."

FRESH START FOR SOUTTAR

JOHN Souttar believes he will benefit from Rangers' pre-season training as he prepares to battle for his place in Michael Beale's side next season.

The revamped Light Blues squad are being put through their paces in Germany with a view to a flying start to next season.

Beale has signed six new players, with the promise of more to come. Souttar, whose 2022/23 season was hampered by injury, said: "It is the first time in a couple of years I will have had a proper pre-season where I am feeling fit and feeling 100 percent."

"It gives you a base for the rest of the season, you are not catching up with the lads or feeling like you are behind, you are right on it."

"This next week or two will give me a great base to hopefully have an injury-free season, so I am looking forward to it."

WHAT A SAVE!

New goalie on £14m less than De Gea

MANCHESTER United will save £56m over four years by swapping David De Gea for Andre Onana.

That's the incredible difference in wages between the two keepers.

De Gea was on a whopping £375,000 a week before he decided to leave Old Trafford. That has cleared the way for Onana to come on board – and he will pocket a relatively modest £100,000 a week.

That adds up to a £14m difference a year – or £70m over the five years of his United contract.

The 27-year-old has not signed from Inter Milan yet but it's thought to be a formality – although he might United boss Erik Ten Hag knows Onana from their time together at Ajax before the Cameroonian gloveman headed to the San Siro.

The Reds head to the United States for a pre-season tour in a couple of weeks and the Dutchman wants his new goalkeeping on the plane. The deal is expected to be done this week.
